Reentry

I'm watching you don't feel a thing what might that be?
I see your smile in the center ring bright lights and lack What's all that dust? Can you see me back?

Reentry on my way out
Reentry why take me back
A real ending is it too much to ask?
Why can't we leave it at that?

No special air no autumn light where might they be?
Back to the room where time still moves subject to me

A movie death clutch stumble roll yeah stretch it out
Dreams into steel high ceilings, words gone with the rest
It was some part I played that part

Ridiculously Deep

Maple opaque
Severe and chic
Is will power possible?
Falling dusk
Lights unclear

Balance is less than useless
Chill at the neck
Ice, cheeks and ears
My sense of touch is worthless
Expensive chests
Rampant, replete
Fear would make the most sense

Eyes blink ridiculously deep
Secrets of unfolding leisure
Despise any motive shy of fate
Sleek and all indecisive

Looming allure
High storied lives
In a roar of splintered music
Dangling, crisp
Like border guards
Sighs are rarely louder
